The Richard K. Reznick Wilson Centre Research Day – October 12 2018

<http://thewilsoncentre.ca/events>

The Richard K. Reznick Wilson Centre Research Day will highlight research in healthcare education and practice conducted by Faculty and students affiliated with the Wilson Centre.

All members of the Wilson Centre and graduate students who are directing (as PI or Co-I) an independent research project affiliated with the Wilson Centre are invited to attend and participate in the program. Information: thewilsoncentre@uhn.ca

Keynote will be Brian Connelly who is an Associate Professor of Organizational Behavior and Human Resources Management in the Department of Management at the University of Toronto-Scarborough, with a cross-appointment to the Organization Behavior and HR area at Rotman. His research examines how organizations can best use personality measures to solve workplace challenges, particularly in employee selection and development. In current and on-going research, he has used personality ratings from others (e.g., one's peers, friends, or family) to study the limitations of self-knowledge, how first impressions are formed, the way people "fake" personality measures and the structure of personality.

Call for Papers - CMEJ Special Issue on Globalization and Health Professions Education: Canadian Dimensions – <http://www.cmej.ca/>

As you will note this is a unique opportunity to share your experiences and perspectives on how globalization is affecting health professions education practice. It is also an opportunity to help raise some critical questions about our field's engagement with globalization related issues. A variety of writing formats are invited (theoretical papers, personal reflections, research reports, literature reviews, essays etc). The journal is also keen on receiving manuscripts from authors around the world who have experiences with Canadian health professions education in some way (i.e. individuals who have studied in Can and have gone on to practice in another country, Canadians who have completed their medical studies abroad and have returned to practice in Can, Individuals who have immigrated to Can from other countries to work in Can health professional education contexts, health professionals with experiences "importing" and applying Canadian health professions curricula and/or CanMEDs in other countries etc.

IHPST 50th Anniversary Celebration

Persons and Populations: Historical and Philosophical Perspectives

Date: April. 28-29 2018

Location: IHPST, 91 Charles Street West, University of Toronto,

To mark its 50th anniversary, The Institute for History and Philosophy of Science and Technology (University of Toronto) is hosting a two-day conference in the history and philosophy of medicine. The program committee welcomes papers in any area of history and philosophy of medicine, but the main theme of this conference is "Persons and Populations." We encourage papers that explore questions, such as the following:

- * Can information derived from populations be useful for decisions at the level of the individual patient?
- * When is it appropriate to deliver care at the level of the population rather than the individual? For example, are there ethical obligations to consider the public health of certain (sub-)populations?
- * When are patients actually treated as persons? Do such revelations highlight inequities in public/private healthcare systems?

Highlight of the conference include:

- * Professor Lucia Dacome (history of medicine, IHPST) will give a keynote address in honour of the creation of the Pauline M. H. Mazumdar Chair in the History of Medicine
- * Mark Tonelli (University of Washington Medical Center) will give a keynote address on "Do We Need a Philosophy of Medicine?"
- * Panel Discussion on "Persons and Populations"
- * Panel Discussion on "The History of Population Health"

Contributed papers in the form of extended abstracts of between one and two pages should be emailed by February 28, 2018 to IHPSTConference@gmail.com. Submissions will be reviewed and notification of acceptance will be given by March 7, 2018.

No fees are associated with this conference and it is open to the public. However, if you do plan to attend, please rsvp IHPSTConference@gmail.com so that we can plan accordingly. Copies of the finalized programme will be send by email on March 15 to participants and to individuals who rsvp IHPSTConference@gmail.com

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS - 2018 U of T IDERD Conference

The Anti-Racism & Cultural Diversity Office (ARCD) in collaboration with its partners will host the 2018 IDERD Conference, March 19 -20, 2018. Building on the inaugural conference that was held in 2017, this year's Conference will convene over two days at Hart House on the St. George campus of the University of Toronto. The Conference will address the theme, “Anti-Racism Change in Postsecondary Institutions: Resistance, Assessment, Measurement, and Accountability.”

Postsecondary institutions have a pivotal role to play in advancing a systemic anti-racism agenda. Through the lens of resistance, assessment, measurement, and accountability, the conference will provide a space for attendees to examine the work needed to bring about transformational change and address racialized inequities in the postsecondary institutions. Some guiding questions for the conference include: How do we move from collecting data to using the data to advance systemic change? How can accountability measures be embedded within institutions to promote anti-racism? How are postsecondary institutions paying attention to resistance efforts in order to forge systemic change and, similarly, resistance efforts that are aimed at impeding such change? How can postsecondary institutions contend with racism in cyber technology, social media and right wing movements?

The goals of the conference are to:

- Advance theory, research and practice that will contribute to efforts to advance the elimination of racism.
- Promote dialogue and critical reflection aimed at advancing institutional, systemic and cultural anti-racism change and the role of postsecondary education institutions in that regard.
- Promote dialogue and critical reflection that take into consideration the contemporary contextual realities of the various manifestations of racism (e.g. cyber racism, etc.)

Submissions: We invite abstracts for papers, workshops, video and poetry performances, and other artistic forms of activism that address the above goals and themes, which will be selected for presentation at a workshop or poster session. We are particularly open to dialogic forms of presenting information and inviting discussion and exchange of ideas.

Abstracts should not exceed 500 words. Abstracts should explain the topic of your presentation, outline the content of your presentation and highlight key discussion points with attention to the practice implications and/or links to how it will advance anti-racism.

Deadline: All abstracts are due February 17, 2018. Please also submit a short biography (maximum 50 words).

Deadline: Email your submissions to the UofT IDERD Conf Planning Ctee at: antiracism@utoronto.ca by February 17, 2018.

Please indicate following in subject line of email submission: 2018_IDERD_Abstract_Full Name

Accepted abstracts will be contacted via email by: March 3, 2018.

IDERD Conference: March 20, 2018.

2018-2019 New and Evolving Academic Leaders (NEAL) Program

The Centre for Faculty Development is pleased to announce that applications for the 2018-2019 class of the New and Evolving Academic Leaders (NEAL) Program are now open!

The goal of the NEAL program is to foster a productive, visionary and collaborative academic leader in the Academic Health Science Network. Participants develop the mindsets and capabilities to successfully lead their division, program, research, education or other academic unit and help enable the success of their academic teams. Specifically, they become competent in the four practices of academic leadership: intrapersonal, interpersonal, organizational and system.

The 2018-2019 program module dates are:

September 24 - 27, 2018

January 21-24, 2019

May 6-9, 2019

The early bird deadline for applications is March 19, 2018 and the final deadline to apply is May 4, 2018. You can find detailed information on the program, fees and application procedure on our <https://cfd.utoronto.ca/nea1>

Summer Education Institute – Teaching for Transformation

The Summer Education Institute (SEI) was inspired by a growing need in health professions education and practice to prepare clinicians for a multitude of complex roles. For example, the health advocate, the collaborator, and the professional. Further complicating matters, these roles must be performed within a complex health care system that aims to support compassionate and person-centered care orientations, diversity, equity, and social justice, while also managing limited resources, quality, safety, and accountability.

To meet this complexity of needs, the SEI offers something unique. It is grounded in a commitment to education as a mechanism for social change; it aims to prepare participants to be agents of change, who then go on and proliferate this change agency through their interactions with clinical learners, colleagues, and patients.

This 3-day intensive program will discuss why and how to engage in transformative education in the health professions. We aim to generate:

1. Different ways of seeing in health professions education;
2. Innovative ideas for teaching and assessing in a transformative way; and,
3. Practical strategies for change.

We invite health professions teachers/educators, clinicians, administrators, leaders, scholars, and others, to join us.

Li Ka Shing Knowledge Institute, 209 Victoria Street (Reception to follow)

Co-hosted by Post MD Education at the University of Toronto and the Centre for Faculty Development, St. Michael's Hospital, this symposium aims to further delve into the strides that have been made in CBME/CBD implementation in the medical education community to date.

This symposium will focus on the aspects of improving feedback processes and techniques for employing new and effective feedback practices and systems in the CBME/CBD landscape. We are delighted to welcome our keynote speaker:

Dr. Joan Sargeant, Professor, Dalhousie University

“Feedback and coaching in CBME: What we are learning from research and theory?”

In addition to our keynote, this symposium will host various presenters and panelists who will inspire a stimulating discussion on CBME/CBD best practices for building a feedback culture on a range of topics including:

- Tools to support building a feedback culture in Surgery
- Video playback to support feedback in Surgery
- Observations on implementation lessons in a busy clinical setting
- Building systems to develop feedback culture

This half-day symposium will serve as an opportunity to:

- Analyze the role of data, feedback and coaching in health professions education
- Determine how to support improved feedback culture and practice of faculty and learners
- Evaluate research issues and design solutions to improve feedback culture and practice in health professions education
- Identify opportunities for further personal application to employ or adapt concepts or tools.

Ontario Grad Scholarship (OGS) <http://www.sgs.utoronto.ca/Pages/default.aspx>

Job Description & Position Responsibilities: The University of Buffalo is excited to announce an opportunity for an educational leader to direct and design a new Institute devoted to developing, supporting, and recognizing the accomplishments of medical educators at the Jacobs School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences. (medicine.buffalo.edu)

The new seven story medical school facility anchors Buffalo's burgeoning interconnected Academic Medical Center(AMC) that includes the Clinical and Translational Research Center (new facility opened 2012), the new free standing Oishei Children's Hospital (11/2017), Buffalo General Medical Center, the Roswell Park Cancer Institute, and Conventus, the site of the UBMD faculty practice plan (opened 4/ 2017). The Director/Associate Dean will be part of the exciting transformation of medical education in Western New York and the resurgence and renewal of Buffalo.

The University at Buffalo Jacobs School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences has a rich tradition in medical education that includes launching careers of the late George Miller, M.D., Hilliard Jason, MD, PhD., and the late Dr. Richard T. Sarkin. The school is poised to build on those roots with the opening of its new state of the art building that boasts numerous flexible, active learning spaces accommodating large and small group teaching, advanced technology for both high and low fidelity simulation in the Ralph J. Behling Simulation Center, 21 fully equipped operating suites for surgical skills education, and digitization of anatomical specimens for advanced teaching in structural biology.

The successful candidate can take advantage of a rich array of existing resources and expertise at the University of Buffalo including the Graduate School of Education(<http://gse.buffalo.edu/>), the Center for Educational Innovation(<http://www.buffalo.edu/ubcei.html>) , State University of New York online Tools for Engagement Project (<https://sites.google.com/site/sunytoep/>), and the UB-Royal College of Physicians Clinical Educator Program

http://medicine.buffalo.edu/cme/education/ub_rcp.html

Four Core Pillars form the foundation for the UB Medical Education and Education Research Institute:

- Medical Educator Skill Development
- Scholarship in medical education
- Recognition and Career Advancement
- Peer Support

The Director will have the opportunity to maintain skills in clinical practice as well as teaching and research.

Qualifications & Skills: Candidates should be well versed in adult learning principles and pedagogy, curricular design, assessment, and be familiar with teaching methods utilized in undergraduate and postgraduate medical education. A terminal degree of MD, Ed.D, or PhD is preferred. Medical or health professions educators with extensive experience are also encouraged to submit letters of interest.

Salary: Salary is negotiable and commensurate with position qualifications.

Application Process: Submit UB application, Letters of Interest, and CV by Thursday, March 15, 2018 to: www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu

"UB is an AA/EOE and welcomes all to apply including members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities"
